

MY MISSION IN THIS WORLD

“For surely I know the plans I have for you, says the Lord, plans for your welfare and not for harm, to give you a future with hope.”

Jerimiah 29:11 NRSV

“Do to others whatever you would have them do to you.”

Matthew 7:12

Introduction

Have you ever wondered why we were created in this world? Have you ever thought why God created us? These questions continue to arise as we grow closer to God. Fellow Christians, God not only created us just to live on this planet but to be His instruments and to spread His word and His love. Each one of us has a special mission; it might be different from one to another, but we are all called to be His messengers. Jesus sacrificed a lot to give us a brighter life we now live in today, and as Christians it is now time for us to repay the love and sacrifice He made and start our hidden mission which is to spread the Word of God and to enlighten our fellow Christians. Starting from spreading God’s Word, educating my fellow Christians and sharing my God given gifts, all are vital in helping me build my arrow of mission that I need to release in this world full of despair and sadness. These are all of my missions.

The mission that I need to share

As a Roman Catholic, my mission in this world is to spread God’s Word and love to others. I can spread the Word of God by telling other people how great and wonderful He is. He’s a great person because He loves us and accepted who we are even though we make a lot of mistakes. Also, my other missions are to give love, joy, and generosity to others. I can show my love to others by expressing how much I love them. Respecting who they are and what they love is one of the ways I can express my love to them. Aside from that, I can give generously to other people by donating stuff in a charity or in Salvation Army. Lastly, I can bring joy to other people by making them happy. Seeing them smile not only brings joy to my heart but it creates a world full of love, happiness and positivity that all of us can live in. I can show my love by giving donations, sharing my talent and helping the people in need.

Christ created me to be His feet, hands, body and eyes

Jesus called me to be part of this Catechism that can help me be His feet, hands, body and eyes and that can help me spread the Word of God. Being a part of this wonderful community helped me to be closer to Jesus. He brought me here to be His hands that can help me build the values that I can share with my fellow Christians. He planned everything well that being a student in the Catechism class in the church widened my heart and eyes and helped me explore better ways to help other people that are in need. Christ called me to be a student here to act as His feet that can help me spread good things to others and how great our God is everywhere I go. Christ is using my involvement with the church’s Catechism by creating a connection between His love and my learnings about His word to prepare myself to be His hands, eyes, feet, and His body.

I am called to be Christ’s feet because I walk to do more good things now and in the future.

I am His hands because I served others and share wonderful things. I am the body of Christ because I lived my faith and do good things. Also, I practice what I learned from the gospel. Lastly, I am His eyes because I see Christ in everyone.

My special mission

My special mission in this life is to help other people in need. I can help them by giving donations to a charity and praying for them. Every day in my life I pray for the people who are in need and I give my old clothes at least once a year. I give them to a Salvation Army or any organization that needed clothing. Last summer I organized my clothes that I want and don't want. Then I gave it to the Salvation Army. The other mission that is important to me is to spread God's word. I truly believe that there are others who have blinded themselves with all the material things they possessed and the advancement of technology that significantly erased their values and they forgot how our God is amazing and His endless sea of love is forever. My mission is to awaken their sleeping souls and enable them to see how God is always there to protect and take care of us. Engaging them to join the church or by just giving them Bibles and advice are some of the ways I can create my mission and vision into reality. I know it'll be challenging but through the guidance of the Holy Spirit I know that God will be here with me, helping me to awaken my fellow Christians from their sins.

My God-given gifts

All of us have different talents whether it may be public speaking or just by simply being helpful and the capacity to think right away are some of the examples of the talents God has given to us. For me I am blessed to know some of my God given talents. My gifts are dancing and singing. I'm not really good at that stuff but I try to enhance more of those skills. I dance every Wednesday at 7:45 am in the morning at my school. I'm in a dance group called MCDC in Maples Collegiate. Last week MCDC performed in our school in front of everyone in the gym. That performance was so fun because I finally got out of my comfort zone and I also got some confidence. That was my first time presenting a dance to other people and that was my first dance group too. Back then I didn't really join dance because I was too shy. But now I said to myself that I should get out of my comfort zone and that I should try and learn new things. Aside from these God given gifts, He gave me the gift of being helpful to others. I might not show it often because I'm shy, but I believe that God gave me this precious gift to help others in their needs and help them awaken their souls to see God's amazing plans for us. Helping others was one of the ways on how I inspired them to plant kindness in their hearts, thus awakening their sinful souls.

The talents that God gave to me

I am good at sharing love and bringing happiness to other people. I can share love by giving things that can make them happy and share some of my blessings to them that I received from God. Lastly, I can bring happiness to people by making them laugh. Every day I make my friends laugh by making jokes. I give love to my family by giving kisses and hugs every day. Not only that, I'm also good at sharing my talents to other people. I share my talent to others by teaching them a dance choreography. Last week I taught my friend Cheska about the choreography that MCDC performed in the school. It was fun to share and teach someone about my talents.

How I connect my daily life with God

I talked to God about my gifts. I thank Him for giving me such wonderful talents. I'm so happy and glad to have those talents that I can share to other people. Every day in my life I thank God for all the blessings and love that He gave me. I also talked to God about my special mission in life. I pray for the people who are in need. I pray for their safety, shelter, health, and other things that they might need help with. Prayer is the perfect time for me to have a conversation with God that helps me release all the pain and suffering from my heart. It's my way of sharing my pain and joy to someone that I know who'll be there and ready to listen to my pain. Whenever I'm stressed or sad, praying with God was the only way in releasing stress from my heart. Praying was also my way of confessing all of my sins to God and asking forgiveness from Him. Not only was it my way to have a deep conversation with God, it's also my way of thanking Him for all of the blessings and love that I received. Praying enabled me to become a better person.

Conclusion

In conclusion, my mission not only enabled me to become a better Christian but it also enabled me to help people connect with God and build their relationship again. The gifts that I received helped me carved my mission and started to make it into reality. All of us faced struggles in life, but if we managed to focus on our faith and His love for us then it will surely help us focus and conduct our mission beautifully. Using the gifts that He gave, trusting His plans and be His messenger that will share His word and love to others, are all of my key factors in building my mission as a Christian today. Not only I created a better version of myself but it helped me discover ways that I can help my fellow Christians in need. This is my mission. What about yours?

Xena Joy Gonzales
Level 8
St. Mary's Cathedral