An Evening with Andrea Currie, née Goulet

Award winning author of

Finding Otipemisiwak:

The People Who Own Themselves

Andrea was born into an historic Franco-Métis family, Goulet. Her grandmother was Marie Thérèse Goulet-Courchaine, a celebrated poet, Manie-Tobie; Andrea is a descendant of Elzéar Goulet, a member of the Louis Riel Provisional Government. She is a Sixties Scoop survivor who was adopted at birth by white parents. She grew up in St. James-Assiniboia, culturally and geographically dislocated from her Red River Métis identity, family, community and culture. Her presentation and book offer an Indigenous chronicle, through memoir, essay and poetry, of her journey home.
